1 Instructions for authors

Important information pertaining to the preparation of your paper:

- Please prepare your paper by editing this file (`aiml16.tex`) as well as the bibliography file, `aiml16.bib`.

- Please do not use includegraphics on any PDF files not having all fonts embedded. If in doubt, please convert to JPG before including.

- It is strictly prohibited to tamper with the text dimensions, including adding to the text height or width. The dimensions of the style files are already taken to the limit of what the printer of the final proceedings is able to handle. Also, please refrain from using any kind of negative white space.

- Please make sure too split lines that are too wide in the final output (avoid overfull `\hbox`es).

2 Introduction

This is a section of the paper. A set of standard theorem environments is available, including Theorem, Proposition, Lemma, Corollary, Definition, Example, Note, Claim and Remark (see the file `aiml16macro.sty` for details).

Definition 2.1 This is a definition.

[1] You can put your email address or grant acknowledgement as a footnote, if you wish.

Lemma 2.2 This is a lemma...

Proof. ...and this is how it's proved. □

This is a citation of an important paper [?], without which the present paper could never have been.

Appendix

Here starts the appendix. If you don't wish an appendix, please remove the `\Appendix` command from the LaTeX file.
